NTL Brings World-Wide Groups Here

Why do people behave as they do. Can they learn how to make better decisions? To communicate with each other more accurately? To work together more productively?

These are some of the questions 228 participants are working on as they take part in NTL's Fifteenth Annual Human Relations Laboratory and the Second Annual Laboratory on Community Leadership now in full swing at Gould Academy. These two laboratories follow the programs for college student leaders and for college faculty and personnel workers completed on June 30. Similar programs will open July 23 for school executives from all over the country and for members of the second section of the Human Relations Laboratory.

The 228 participants now in Bethel come from 28 states, including Hawaii, from Puerto Rico, from Washington, D.C., with 38 coming from several parts of Canada; from Costa Rica, Brazil, Chile, Venezuela; from India; from Nigeria; and from Denmark, England, Italy, Holland and Spain. With a staff of social scientists drawn from leading colleges and universities across the country, they are spending the two weeks in an intensive program of lectures and work in small training groups.

Participants come both as individuals seeking to improve their own skills in working with others and as delegates sent by organization and community groups interested in applying human relations skills to organizational and community problems. Members of the community program, for instance, come from both public and private agencies at local, state, national and international levels. They include both voluntary citizens and people working professionally on community problems. They are concerned with community improvement and with special problems related to planning and housing, to schools, to health, to youth, to aging, to recreation, to urban renewal, to inter-group relations.

People who were living in Bethel in 1947 when NTL brought its first laboratory to Gould Academy will be struck by the growth in the program. This summer the program has grown from one laboratory to seven with each laboratory over-subscribed. Dr. Leland P. Bradford, NTL director from the beginning, has expressed

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

After the column was written last week, two more surplus food items were delivered, lard and beans, making a total of ten items distributed during June. Agreement was reached with Hanover last week that they should reimburse Bethel for expenses incurred distributing surplus food to a case they have that resides in Albany.

On June 30th, 37 tax mortgage liens representing 31 taxpayers were filed at the Register of Deeds, the value amounting to $2202.64. The redemption period runs for 18 months and liens unpaid of Dec. 30, 1962 will expire and title to the property will go to the town.

It is pleasing to report that all 1960 poll taxes have been paid and that only six persons are still owing 1960 personal property taxes. In most of the cases legal action has been taken or agreement made as to date of payment.

The State Aid reconstruction project on the Greenwood Road has been started with Paul McKee as foreman. The joint funds plus the unexpended balance from 1960 makes about $9,000 available for the project.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

CHURCH OF NAZARENE TO HOLD SERVICES AT MIDDLE INTERVALE

The Bethel Church of the Nazarene, which has been meeting at the Community Room, is planning to hold services at the Middle Intervale Church, beginning this Sunday at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Next Sunday, July 16th, the regular schedule of services will be held: Sunday school at 9:30; Morning worship at 11; Youth Group at 6:30 p. m.; and an evangelistic service at 7:30 p. m. This schedule will be continued until further notice.

The public is invited to attend all these services.

Miss Lillian Currier who is employed by United Engineering Corp., in Pittsburgh, Pa., left the first of July on a three week trip with the YWCA visiting the states of Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, Texas, and Wyoming.

deep appreciation for hospitality the community of Bethel has always extended to the laboratories. He points out that this is particularly appreciated this year when Gould Academy facilities are filled to capacity and many delegates are housed throughout the village

HAROLD G. BENNETT

Harold G. Bennett died at Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, Wednesday evening a brief illness.

Born in Errol, N. H., Aug. 9, 1903, son of Edward E. and Minnie Olson Bennett, he came to Bethel with his family when he was a boy, and was educated in the local schools, graduating from Gould Academy in 1922. He married Evelyn Crosby in Arlington, Mass., and resided there until 1945 when he returned to Bethel, taking over the Riverside Farms formerly owned by his father.

Harold G. Bennett

He served on the Bethel Board of Selectmen and Assessors since March, 1954, and as chairman the past year. He also served as director of the State Farm Bureau for two years; was past president of the Maine Breeders' Cooperative; past president of the Oxford County Dairy Association; member of the Maine Milk Commission since 1955; and the Maine Dairymen's Association four years. He was a member of the West Parish Congregational Church, Bethel; a trustee of Gould Academy and past president of the Gould Academy Alumni Association, and a incorporator of Bethel Savings Bank.

Surviving are his widow, Evelyn, a son, Capt. Donald Bennett, Painesville, Ohio; his father, Edward E. Bennett, Bethel; two brothers, Elmer E. Bennett, and Arthur O. New York City; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Knight, Montpelier, Vt., and Mrs. Ruth Lord, Bethel.

Funeral services will be held at the Congregational Church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. Clifford Laws officiating. Interment will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Six Hurt in Crash on Rte. 2 in Gilead

Six Bethel people were injured in a two car collision at 12:05 a. m. Wednesday. A 1959 Ford sedan, driven by Rodney H. McAllister, was struck in the rear by a 1955 Buick sedan driven by Kenneth Delano in the winding road on Route 2 east of Gilead village.

Passengers in the McAllister car were Mr. McAllister's wife, Lelia, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Perkins. Mr. Delano was accompanied by Rudolph Belanger. Mr. McAllister was taken to the Norway hospital and later to the CMG Hospital, Lewiston, suffering a broken nose and jaw. Mr. Perkins, a patient at the Norway hospital, received a dislocated and fractured right shoulder. The others suffered only bumps and bruises.

Both cars were a total loss.

MAJOR GENERAL ALGER HEADS II ARMY CORPS

Brigadier General James Dyce Alger, who on July 1 succeeded retiring Major General Raymond W. Curtis as commanding general of II United States Army Corps, has been promoted to Major General. It was announced by the Department of the Army.

General Alger, whose previous assignment was as Assistant Chief of Staff, G3, Headquarters, Allied Land Forces Central Europe, is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, and of Gould Academy, of which he is a trustee.

During World War II, General Alger commanded the 2nd Battalion, First Armored Regiment, 1st Armored Division, which in 1942 moved to Northern Ireland, England, and eventually to North Africa. General Alger was captured near Kasserine Pass in Tunisia, early in 1943.

General Alger served as Chief of of the 45th Infantry Division during the Korean Conflict, later becoming Chief of Staff of the Korean Military Advisory Group.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this way in thanking every one who in any way has helped me since I came to care for John Harris a year and a half ago. Also the wonderful help given me by Ola Olson during John's last days, Rev. Pendleton for his coming from Connecticut to assist Rev. Laws in the wonderful service they rendered, and the faithful service of Dr. Twaddle during the time I have been here. I'm sure that those concerned feel the same way.

Read John 10:11-18

Ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's. (I Corinthians 6:20).

A woman I never met influenced my life. She was a Russian nun by the name of Sister Maria. During World War II, she was the head of a convent school in Paris during the Nazi occupation. Utterly unselfish and valiant, she sought to relieve the suffering, not only of her fellow Catholics, but of the persecuted Jews, some of them in her school.

One day the Nazis came and demanded that she turn over all her Jewish students. Sister Maria knew that it would mean for them concentration camps and death. One high school girl was overcome with fear. Sister Maria quickly took off her nun's habit and put it on the girl. Then she herself put over her head the yellow scarf of the Jew and said, "I'll go for you. I'll take your place." Sister Maria died as a Jew.

How few of us have the courage, to put ourselves in other people's places when it involves suffering, pain, and loss. Yet that is what Jesus said was the way His disciples must take in following Him.

PRAYER: O God, as Christ laid down His earthly life that we might find eternal life in Thy love so infuse our spirits with sacrificial dedication. Through us may Thy love be a conquering power over prejudice and hate. For His sake. Amen.

Thought For The Day

Only the splendor that shone in Jesus enables us to lay down life or live in the spirit of the Master.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Defining Two Words

by John T. Flynn

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John T. Flynn is a noted author, lecturer and radio commentator.) What's the difference between a Republican and a Democrat? There was a time when that question could be answered pretty clearly. But not any more—not if you are trying to describe a social, political and economic philosophy with the word "Republican" or "Democrat." The word "Democrat" has no meaning when it is applied, for instance, to both Harry Byrd and Hubert Humphrey; the word "Republican" has no meaning when applied to both Barry Goldwater and Jacob Javits.

However, there are two words which are much more descriptive of two opposing philosophies. They are "liberal" and "conservative." But these words need defining, especially the word "liberal." It now has an entirely different meaning (which is why it must be surrounded by quotation marks) from what we used to understand by the word. The modern "liberal," in calling himself a "liberal," has copied the communist technique of giving upside-down meanings to old words.

In the America of the 19th and early 20th century a liberal was really what we now call a conservative. He had evolved from the old European liberals who, at the dawn of capitalism, were merchants and businessmen. They were in revolt against domination by the dying feudal aristocracy. As the liberal movement in Europe grew, it came to stand for political freedom. In the United States in the last century, a liberal stood for liberty, political, economic and religious liberty. His chief concern was for the individual as against organized tyranny by either government or economic pressure groups. Usually, he was a strict constitutionalist because he knew that the U. S. Constitution was the greatest guarantee of individual liberty ever invented.

The modern "liberal" is therefore a far cry from the American liberal of 50 or 100 years ago. The old liberal believed that "that government is best which governs least." The modern "liberal" believes in Big Government—so that more and more power is centered there, and less control over his life and fortunes is left to the individual. Depending on his degree of dedication to modern "liberalism," the "liberal" believes the government—which means the men who run government—should manage a little, or half, or two-thirds of our lives, or everything from birth to death. In the final analysis, modern "liberalism" means taking from the people a little, or part, or all of their substance, giving it to a central government—which means an army of bureaucrats—and letting them say where, how and when it should be used.

A conservative, on the other hand, wishes to conserve what we have—or had. He wishes to keep and strengthen the governmental system which made us the freest people on earth. He wishes to maintain an economic system which—because it was free—brought us the greatest abundance in the history of mankind.

The word "conservative" is often confused with the word reactionary. Modern "liberals" deliberately propound this confusion because they want to make it seem that a conservative is an old fuddy-duddy who lives in the dark past and never wants to change anything. But the true conservative is not opposed to change and progress. He merely maintains that change, simply for the sake of change, is not always necessarily good, and that there are values and principles which are unchangeable. Unlike the modern "liberal," he does not go overboard for every crackbrained notion which comes out of a government bureau or so-called "task force" or the Harvard Economics Department. As for progress, the conservative believes in true progress—much more so, really, than does the modern "liberal." But he believes such progress should always be

SAUNDERS - HARRINGTON

Miss Judith Elaine Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Harrington of East Bethel, became the bride of Richard Craig Saunders of Bethel, July 1, at the West Parish Congregational Church. The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Clifford B. Laws.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a short organza gown with scoop neckline and shoulder length veil falling from a pearl crown. She carried a cascade of daisies and roses.

Miss Susan Saunders, the maid of honor, wore blue and white organza and white carnations.

Addison W. Saunders, brother of the groom, was best man and Stephen Saunders was usher.

The bride's mother wore a beige ensemble and a corsage of pink carnations complemented her costume.

The groom's mother wore a beige lace dress and a yellow corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the East Bethel Grange Hall where friends of the bride and groom were waiting to greet them.

Mrs. Gloria Harrington had charge of the gift table assisted by Esther and Wilma Harrington and Eileen Saunders.

Mrs. Addison W. Saunders had charge of the guest book.

The three tiered wedding cake was made by an aunt of the groom, Mrs. Charles Farrar and served by Mrs. Wallace Saunders.

The bride graduated from Gould Academy in June, 1960.

The groom is also a graduate of Gould Academy and attended the University of Maine.

TEEN COUNCIL

Friday, June 30, the second teenage dance was held at the Community Room. The Council wants to thank Mr. and Mrs. Dana Douglass and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waldron for their services as chaperones. It also wants to thank Roderick McMillin for the use of his P. A. system. This system really improved the projection of the music.

Jimmy Davis and Linda Lord won the elimination dance.

This Friday, July 7, there will be two young guest musicians, Larry and Carolyn Lippitt from NTL who play the guitar.

The Council would like to remind everyone that school clothes are the required dress. Let's see a lot of teenagers at the dance!

made within the framework of our constitutional, free-enterprise system—with the least possible coercion by the government of the individual.

Once we get our definitions straight, it is obvious that it is the modern "liberal"—not the conservative—who is the reactionary. Modern "liberalism" would return us to the old tyrannical darkness of the all-powerful central state. Conservatism would rebuild the freedom of the American Republic, and have us go forward to ever greater progress within the framework of our God-given liberties.

Whatever we have dared to think. That dare we also to say. —James Russell Lowell

COUNTRY FLAVOR

PLANK BRIDGES

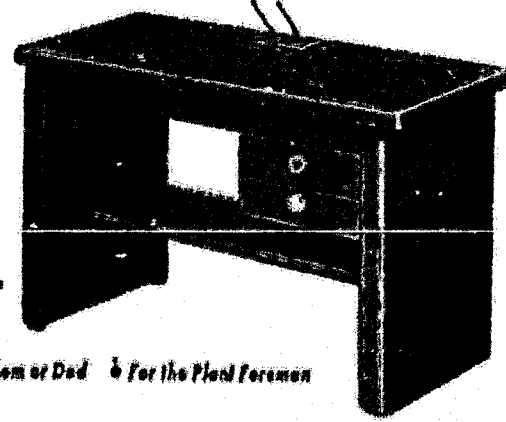

Remember the old, splintered, weathered plank bridge across the brook? Remember how the planks rattled when the Morgan roader trotted across in the shafts of the democrat? Old plank bridges are disappearing. Modern traffic requires cement and steel, but time was when plank bridges were important. After first settlers came into a region, the pathmaster laid out the roads, winding around the hills and shoulders of low mountains, dropping down into valleys and ravines where clear-water brooks sang on their way to a distant sea.

Men with ox teams brought big rocks for abutments; they laid stringers of oak, chestnut, or maple and over the stringers placed heavy planks. Sometimes guard rails were built; sometimes logs were rolled into place at the sides of the bridge.

Boys liked to explore beneath the bridges and in bare feet edged slowly along slippery, mossy stones. Sometimes big trout lived beneath the bridge; sometimes a lad saw a water snake go slithering unharmed away downstream, head high, resembling the picture of the fabled sea serpent in the Book of World Wonders.

No longer do buggies and buckboards, democrats and fringed surreys rattle weathered planks. No longer do iron-shod horses scuff a splintery path across the planks. The old plank bridges are gone, along with buffalo robes, horse blankets and stylish buggy whips. The humble, unpretentious structures played their role well. The bridges and their builders are part of the great drama, still playing, that has made a nation from a wilderness.

JOHN HARRIS

John Harris died Monday afternoon at his home on Broad Street.

He was born in Newry June 19, 1870, the son of Charles and Namah Bartlett Harris. He attended Gould Academy and went to Massachusetts as a young man where for 30 years he was head engineer in a rubber company.

In 1940 he and his sister, Hattie, returned to the Harris homestead on Broad Street. Since the death of Miss Harris in December 1959, Mr. Harris has been cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bean.

He is survived by two cousins, Mrs. Ellen Bailey, 97, of Bethel, and Charles Frost, 92, of West Paris.

Funeral services were held from his late home Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Charles Pendleton and Rev. Clifford Laws officiating. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery.

BETHEL LIBRARY

The reading contest at the Library is most popular. Last Saturday was the largest circulation we have ever had (according to the records available.) 65 readers now have rockets headed for the moon. One gets a rocket by reading five books. Martha Laws continues to read, having read 11 books. Susan Hutchins has read 9. Eleanor Mills, 8. The others who have rockets are as follows: Eleanor Mills, Beth Sargent, Susan Davis, Jean Hillier, Tom Davis, Cynthia Crockett, Susan Hutchins, Mary Hillier, Burton Mills.

In the class where the child is read to are Mike Davis and Betty Davis, both with rockets.

BRYANT POND

Mrs. Juanita B. Allen, Correspondent

On Wednesday evening, June 28, open house was held at the Bryant Pond Universalist Church with the following program: Processional, Junior choir, invocation and prayer, Rev. Glenn McKee, pastor; solo, Merle Ring; Welcome, Mrs. Rena Howe, chairman of the board of management; history of the church, Mrs. Edith Abbott; anthem, Junior Choir; greetings, Rev. Kenneth Hawkes, superintendent of N. E. District of Universalist-Unitarian Churches; selection, Junior Choir; remarks, Rev. McKee.

Others serving on the program were: Mrs. Addelyn Mann, music and flowers; Harold Tyler and M. Parker Allen, ushers; Mrs. Ruth Tyler, and other assistants from the Circle, refreshments, which were served in the vestry following the program.

On August 31, 1952, the church celebrated its 100th Anniversary and rededication of the church. At the organization of the First Universalist Society in 1853, there were but 13 members. The church was actually built in 1852 and was dedicated Feb. 2 1853. The land was given by Joseph Frye and the plans for the church drawn up by Ezra Beal of Norway. The church was deeded to the Universalist Church Convention of Maine by trust deed, Aug. 18, 1918. From then until 1949 only occasional summer services were held. In 1952, the parish was organized and at present the membership stands at 40. An active church school with a regular attendance of 36 during the last year has strengthened the church. A ladies Circle and Fellowship Club aided not only financially but in the work that has been done and in social activities of the church. Of noted interest is the Junior choir, under supervision of Organist Addelyn Mann. There have been 76 christenings.

Mrs. Frank Packard and children, Richard, Jody, and Mark, are spending a week's visit with her mother and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Gould, Lovell.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Laster and children, Craig and Leanne, spent the week end at Small Point as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Parker, Jr., of Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Howe attended the Mail Carrier's Convention last Friday and Saturday in Augusta.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Allen and children, Tommy, Mark, and Margaret, of York, were guests last Thursday at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. Parker Allen.

The Bryant Pond Baptist church school and Vacation Bible school children held their picnic at Littlefield Beach last Saturday, which ended their sessions for the summer. About 90 were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jordan and family, Portland, visited relatives here while in this vicinity for the long holiday week end.

Mrs. Pearl Cole, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Barbara Baer, in Connecticut, has been visiting Mrs. Addelyn Mann and Mrs. Elsie Cole for a few days prior to moving into her own home for the summer.

John Gaugler, Jr., was home from Togus to spend the long holiday week end with his family. It was erroneously sent in that he was spending a 30-day visit.

Richard Berry and Larry Whitman are spending a week in the Katahdin region on a fishing and camping trip.
